

Profile

Natalie Abshier

Experience

Burger Consulting Group – September 2008 to Present

Joined Burger Consulting as a Senior IT Consultant working with clients on IT strategy and planning services, software selection and the application of advanced technologies to construction industry business processes.

Abshier Enterprises, Inc. – July 2007 to September 2008

CEO of AEI, providing Consulting and Product Management Services to define and clarify web application strategy, develop overall marketing plans and implement a product management plan.

Accubid Systems, Ltd. – July 2004 to July 2007

Product Manager for the ConstructJob Project Management and Bid Solicitation System. Principal visionary and manager of all applications provided to aid the construction industry in the project management software and bid solicitation requirements. Responsible for development, sales, support and training on all ConstructJob project management software. Areas of concentration included Construction Project Management and Scheduling, Subcontract Management, Estimating and Procurement.

ConstructJob, Inc. – May 1998 to July 2004

CEO of ConstructJob, Inc., a provider of web based construction project management and bid solicitation system for the construction industry. Responsible for all aspects of planning, business analyst requirements, software development, sales and marketing activities, product direction, competitive analysis and business partner relationships. Created and managed all product development strategies.

Education

University of Colorado
Metropolitan State College

Associations

Associated Builders and Contractors
American Subcontractors Assn.
Associated General Contractors of America